SPORTSMANSHIP

What if you were an athlete getting paid millions of dollars for playing in the NFL, NBA, MLB or any other professional sports league? Every time you make a catch or a tackle in football, you make an excessive celebration and get in peoples faces. You probably know you're one of the best at what you're doing, but you can still be under control and congratulate your teammates when they have a good play. Richard Sherman[cornerback for the Seattle Seahawks] is a good player, but is he the guy you want your children to look up? Probably not.

Is swearing at the reporters or making bad choices to go to jail really what you want to spend your time doing, when you could give a good interview or spend time with your family instead of in jail.

The media elaborates on the worse side of the NFL when there is a lot of good in the NFL. A simple good game or even creating a friendship on the other team is good sportsmanship. Drew Brees,Colts kicker Adam Vinatieri, and Brandon Marshall are afew examples of players that help kids with special needs.Why cant more NFL players do that with all of there money insted of buying ilegal drugs and guns.One player perticular Tim Tebow gave gifts and tickets to Bronco games to the homeless in Denver,Colerodo.While he played in the NFL.So I gess the message sportsmanship will make your life much easyer in sports.
